UN Women Policy Brief No. 4: Why macroeconomic policy matters for gender equality

Further reading

Endnotes
1 Duflo 2012; Kabeer and Natali 2013.
2 UN Women 2014; Ortiz and Cummings 2013.
3 A number of countries that were badly affected by the 2008 global crisis changed their approach to monetary policy as part of their response to the downturn. The recession reduced inflationary pressures and interest rates remained low as monetary policy focused on supplying adequate liquidity to the financial markets.
4 Braunstein and Heintz 2008.
6 Folbre 2013.
7 Central Bank News 2015.
9 ILO 2012.
10 Chang and Grabel 2014.
11 Cordero and Montecino 2010.
12 IMF 2013; Lim et al. 2011.
13 UN Women Forthcoming; Elson 1998.
14 Balakrishnan and Elson 2008.

Bibliography

