The following three pages capture UNiCC’s performance on UN-SWAP 2.0 indicators for 2022.

In 2022, UNICC met or exceeded the requirements for 6 out of 13 applicable performance indicators.
Most significant gains

- In 2022, UNICC exceeded requirements for two indicators and met them for another four indicators.

- UNICC has exceeded requirements on Gender-responsive Performance Management and Knowledge and Communication. Additionally, UNICC has met requirements for performance indicators on Leadership, Gender Architecture, Organization Culture and Capacity Development.

Areas for improvement

- UN Women encourages UNICC to prioritize the only indicator missing requirements, Capacity assessment.

- UN Women also recommends focusing on policy development, a proven catalyst for overall UN-SWAP progress.
In 2022, UNICC trailed the average performance of Training Institutes and of the UN System as a whole.

UN Women encourages UNICC to continue building upon their solid foundation by focusing on the one indicator missing requirements, and increasing efforts on the six indicators approaching requirements.
