

Learning from and Using Surveys to Assess the Gendered Socio-Economic Impacts of COVID-19

 17 November 2020, 10:00 – 11:30 am EST

UN Women & World Bank Webinar

The webinar aims to provide a venue for various partners – government and non-State actors – of UN Women and the World Bank to share learning experiences on and use cases of their COVID-19 data collection initiatives with focus on gender dimensions.

It will feature learnings from World Bank's high-frequency phone surveys in Latin America and the Caribbean and UN Women's rapid gender assessments in Afghanistan, where face-to-face interviews have to be undertaken in partnership with the International Rescue Committee to reach the furthest behind. Bridging the gap between data production and use, the Webinar will also showcase use cases of these surveys in Maldives, Bangladesh, and Jordan.
